This guide to the McLaughlin Reserve was created by a UC Davis class in fall 1999 and winter 2000, using environmental information provided by the Homestake Mining Company and by people with expert knowledge of the site.

Dean Enderlin, Senior Environmental Engineer at Homestake, provided much of the information that went into the handbook. Susan Harrison, professor of Environmental Science and Policy at UC Davis, coordinated the handbook project. Kelly Lyons laid out the first edition; Shane Waddell produced the second. Susan Harrison, Joe Calizo, Cathy Koehler, Art Shapiro, and Shane Waddell provided edits for the second addition.

The following individuals contributed to the chapters:

History: Kara de Vries and Dan Leroy (authors); Dean Enderlin, Robert Matthews and Eleanor Swent (expert advisors)

Geology: Kit Batten and Erin Foresman (authors); Dean Enderlin, Robert Matthews, Eldridge Moores and Robert Zierenberg (expert advisors)

Plants: Leslie Allen, Jon Gelbard and Liz Lynn (authors); Christy Brigham, Joseph Callizo, Susan Harrison and Kelly Lyons (expert advisors)

Insects: Beth Leger and Kelly Lyons (authors); Lynn Kimsey, Arthur Shapiro and Phil Ward (expert advisors)

Reptiles and amphibians: Christy Brigham and Caz Taylor (authors)

Birds and mammals: Jan Goerrissen and Rebecca Lewison (authors); Sid England (expert advisor)

Aquatic ecology: Charles Battaglia, Mary Greaves and Sudeep Chandra (authors); Peter Connors, Vincent Resh and Darell Slotton (expert advisors).

Self-guided Tour: Created by Christy Brigham.
